Inspiration
Some notes of good from First Church of Christ, Scientist, Godalming, Surrey, United Kingdom

A month ago we had a returnee walk into our Sunday Service... her grandma had been a [a] Journal-listed Christian Science practitioner and another relative listed in the Journal in Illinois! She has been attending Sunday service regularly and purchased a Bible and Science and Health as she no longer had one of her own.

One of the two newcomers last June / July time has turned to a Journal-listed practitioner. She is coming to our Sunday services as well.

We enjoyed stepping in to help a neighboring branch Reading Room at a fair this Saturday, too!

NEW PRODUCTS

PRICE DECREASE: Red Chalk Holder
We are delighted to share a significant price decrease on our red chalk holder from $30.00 to $12.00. We are replacing the Red Metal Chalk Holder (G600G50021EN) with a new, nearly identical, Red 5mm Chalk Holder (G600G50022EN). The following factors have allowed us to implement this price change: a change in packaging, a piece of chalk will no longer be included, and a new agreement with the manufacturer.

A special series from The Christian Science Monitor

MENDING THE PAST, FORGING THE FUTURE

The Christian Science Monitor’s June 19th Weekly magazine explores efforts around the world to seek justice and restitution for communities subjected to historical harms. This special issue marks the launch of a Monitor series on this topic. Sharing this series with people in your community—especially those wrestling with how they feel about reparations or similar issues, and how to find common ground—will help to encourage discussion, broaden understanding, and bring new perspectives to a divisive issue. These new perspectives can ultimately bring about healing.

You can explore the series on the Monitor’s website at CSMonitor.com/reparationsdebate. To request additional copies of the June 19th issue of the Weekly, please use this form. Supporting promotional materials (posters, flyers, and product images) are included in the Reading Room Press Kit.
