

Jesus was a man known for his healing works and teachings. One day, he saw that the people who had listened to him all day were now hungry.

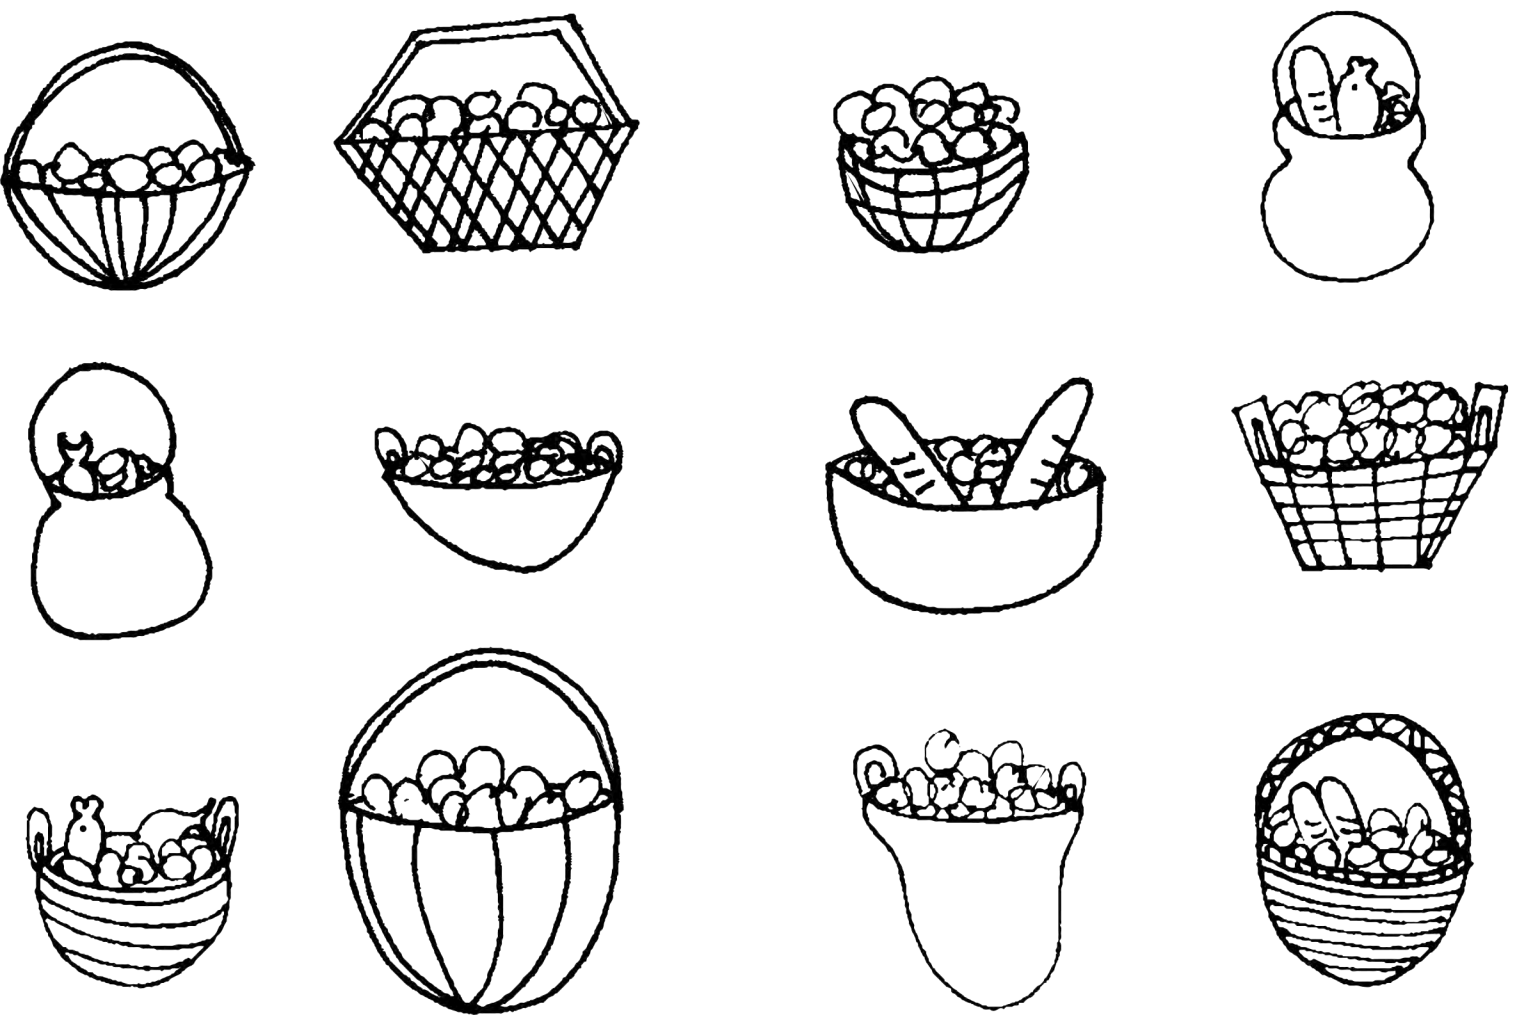

"Let's feed these five thousand people," Jesus said to his disciples. "We don't have enough money to buy food, and all we have is five loaves of bread and two fish," the disciples replied.

Jesus asked everyone to sit down.
Then, he gave thanks to God and divided out the bread and fish for the disciples to distribute.

After everyone had eaten, the disciples gathered up what was left over. There were twelve baskets full of leftover crumbs!

Even though there were five thousand people, every single one of them was fed, and there were even leftovers. Everyone was provided for!
